Gentlemen:

Because I know that you are interested in the record of the Negro, I am reminding you of sending us your order for Dr. Carter C. Woodson's NEGRO IN OUR HISTORY. This book has won its way in this country and abroad. You have, therefore, probably thought of buying a copy of this work; but, being otherwise occupied, you may not have had the time to write us.

We are hereby making it easy for you in merely requesting that you fill out the blank attached to the circular herewith enclosed and send us $3.25. This will bring you the book. If after thoroughly reading it you feel that it is not worth the price, we will refund your money. We are standing behind this book with an absolute guarantee of its worth. No one can offer you a fairer proposition.

Appearing in the fourth edition in a size twice as large as the first, this work treats adequately practically all of the neglected aspects of Negro history. Those who have the early editions must want this more informing volume. Those who have no Negro history at all cannot make a more profitable investment than to purchase this book. It is a necessity for the student. It is a helpful companion for the teacher. It is an excellent reference work for the man of affairs. It is stimulating reading for the broad professional man. It meets a long felt need in the minister's library.

In this work the reader can trace the growth of the race unto full stature. He sees the Negro in the discovery of America, in the exploration of the continent, in the conquest of the wilderness, and in the development of the nation's resources. In the same drama the Negro appears also in the role of the poet, the artist, the inventor, the spokesman, the editor, the captain of industry, the specialist, the educator, and the churchman.

In short, here is the opportunity to learn the whole truth. Without this truth all elements in this country will never attain that fullness of freedom which can come only with social justice. "Ye shall know the truth and the truth will make you free. The greatest friend of truth is time; her greatest enemy is prejudice." Here, then, is your opportunity to inform yourself and then to disillusion others who know nothing of the romantic story of the rise of the Negro unto usefulness and efficiency.

You will eventually secure a copy of this work. Your need for it will be constantly brought before you by others who have profited by reading it. Why not send us your order now, then, and thus from the very beginning have the assistance which this volume will inevitably bring? You may have the Maroon Cloth edition for $3.25 by mail, or the De Luxe edition ornamented with gold for $4.25.

Respectfully yours,

THE ASSOCIATED PUBLISHERS,
